“ Chris Foust lit a candle in memory of Charles N. Brown

“ I know that chucky was a god fearing and God loving man. I remember when he would work out of town all week striping lines on the highway and weekends he would come and pick me Chris Foust and Bobby Hurd and Tim grindstaff up. we would ride around on the old country roads in his Monte Carlo. We were younger and didn't know anything about roads or life but we sure couldn't wait until the weekend so we could hang out with chucky back in 1982-86. Even after all the years we said lose contact. He came to my apartment in the loft at Jacqueline hair on Cecil and recently at Washington Ave and Olive Street. He wanted me to move in and share the living room as the bedroom. Bi love you chucky and I'll never forget. I miss you so much.
